Mobile devices in Workplace - Leveraging the affordances for Professional Development

Abstract:
Mobile devices such as smartphones and tablet devices (iDevices, Android etc) are ubiquitous and pervasive. The affordances of these devices when combined with the internet and social media provides powerful learning opportunities that focuses on the learner, their networks and the context they are in.

This presentation will look at some of the affordances of mobile devices and how it could be used for embedded professional development for staff in a workplace.
